

Project XIII functions as a secure communications layer between you and the people that you interact with. It provides seamless data encryption and decryption of your data. Chat, E-VOIP, messages, posts, comments, documents, etc are all moved between users as encrypted data. The data is encrypted before it leaves the source device and is decrypted when it arrives at the target device

With Project XIII

Without Project XIII

